Rabbi Michael Rascoe

My senior colleague and friend Rabbi Joseph Radinsky, of blessed memory, felt that a major theme of Pesach is dialogue, and it starts before the seder. In the haftarah for Shabbat Ha-Gadol, the prophetic reading on the Sabbath before Passover (Malachi 3:24), God says that Eliyahu ha-navi, Elijah the prophet, "shall reconcile parents with children and children with their parents" (see below for a different translation). Mosheh, Moses, knows this when he insists before Pharaoh, "young and old: we will go with our sons and daughters...for we must observe [God's] festival" (Exodus 10:9). Pharaoh will only let men go, but Mosheh insists on everyone.

The Bible records that children ask questions, and parents must answer them. This underlies the Four Questions, and leads the Four Children to teach us that it doesn't matter our child's temperament or learning style; we must ensure that they ask questions, and that we answer them.

Every generation questions the next one. 1950's parents complained about their 1960's children's interests and tastes. Today's parents gripe about their children. Every generation complains about the next one's music, clothes, food, language, and body. The styles and issues change; each side reacts. Reactions breed misunderstanding, even distrust.

By having parents and children talk at the seder, the rabbis tell us that dialogue matters. We may disagree, but we must find a way to communicate. Yes, the seder is about a good meal, and feeling good, but at it we talk about everything in life, not just Judaism—a seder is a religious celebration, with a meal, designed to talk about Judaism in our lives.

Redemption is the context of both the seder and the haftarah before it. The seder commemorates our redemption from Egypt. At the seder we also await Eliyahu, who will bring ultimate redemption. In the haftarah before Pesah, Malachi talks about the coming terrible day of God before which the reconciliation of parents with children and children with parents must take place, if we want to avoid utter destruction. However, we also can translate the haftarah verse: Eliyahu "shall restore the hearts of parents along with children, and children with their parents." In the earlier one, intergenerational reconciliation forestalls God's wrath; in this one, both must restore their relationship and together return to God, in order to avoid utter destruction. May our seder be where the generations talk.

A Message from Our President

Dear Friends,

The pandemic struck our community approximately three years ago. Together we have worked to keep our Temple and community running, using care, reasonable protections, and kindness. The world has continued the re-opening process and TIR will as well.

The Board, with guidance from our re-opening committee (thank you for your hard work and continued effort to keep us safe) has decided that we will return to the pre-pandemic way of life. We strongly suggest those attending events in person be vaccinated since we have an elderly population, and by being vaccinated you will be performing a mitzvah of kindness to others. However, if you attend events and are unvaccinated, we ask that you please wear a mask.

If you are feeling under the weather, please stay home. Zoom is available so you can still "attend" services without compromising others' health.

For those of you who have been with us on Zoom, have no fear: we will continue to provide that service for the foreseeable future — in addition to allowing us to hold services during the worst of the pandemic, it reconnected us with old friends who have moved away, and also provided an opportunity to those under the weather or with concerns to participate in our services. Rest assured, we will respect your right to choose your comfort level and, as always, will try to make everyone feel safe and secure.

Thank you for your continued support.

L'shalom,

Jaime Siegel, President

On behalf of the Board and Rabbi

Please Note: In an effort to reduce our postage and printing expenses, the May 2023 bulletin will not be mailed. It will be distributed via email and be posted on our website.

Our Revised Shabbat Schedule and Rules

Friday night services at 7:00 PM. in person and via Zoom.
Saturday morning services at 9:30 AM. in person & via Zoom.

All are invited to join us in-person for Friday and Saturday services.

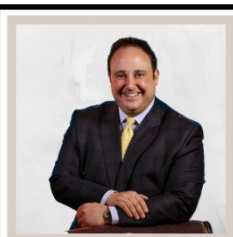

- We strongly suggest that you wear a mask if you are unvaccinated.
- Zoom will be available for the foreseeable future.
- Any bag brought into the building is subject to inspection by our security staff.
- If you do not feel well, please do not come to services.
- If you have been exposed to someone who has or who may have Covid-19, please stay home.
- We reserve the right to deny entrance to anyone.
- We request that every effort be made to stay for the entire service.

Please contact the Temple office with any questions, concerns, or for Zoom directions..

Holocaust Remembrance Day

Please join us on April 30, 2023, 1:00 PM

Yom Hashoah Program: The Next Generation

Award-winning author A.J. Sidransky returns to Temple Israel of Riverhead to lead us on a journey of how to ensure that Holocaust survivors are remembered, and that the world never forgets.

Alan will discuss the basis for two of his novels which specifically detail his relatives' experiences during the Holocaust years, titled Forgiving Maximo Rothman, and The Interpreter. These books tackle experiences from the Holocaust which are unfamiliar to most people, and add new light to the far-reaching effects beyond the horrors of the concentration camps. Alan will discuss what factors besides just luck were critical for survival. He will then lead us into the impact that Holocaust trauma has had on the children of survivors.

In the second half of this unique program, Alan will interview Shari Gowntner Lopez, whose parents were Holocaust survivors. Her parents had very different survival stories and surreptitiously met in the states following their immigration. The interview will focus on how her parents' history affected her life, and what dynamic existed between them and their children regarding their Holocaust experiences. How did it affect her life and world view? What does she want the world to know and remember? Since her mom's passing, Shari has been looking for ways to communicate her parents' stories, and looks forward to sharing them with the TIR community under Alan's direction.

A question and answer session will follow.

Alan's books will be available for purchase following the program.

This is a free program, generously sponsored by the Milligan family.

The cost of a leaf is $180 for members. Please contact Phyllis VanDyne at 631-734-7511 for information.

Philanthropy • Public Service • Volunteering

We know what it takes to make a strong Jewish community.
Doing our job well is just the beginning.

We believe to be a good funeral director, you should serve the community in times of growth and happiness as well as times of grief. It's not surprising we've served the Jewish community for over 100 years. How we've served is the surprising part. David Rubin and his entire staff work tirelessly in serving the Jewish community, but then, that's part of our philosophy and tradition. We believe to be a good funeral director, you should serve and give back to the community.
